The Pacific Railroad Investigation.

NEW YORK, July 9.—With regard to the published lists of contracts for stock and lands of the Leavenworth, Pawnee and Western Railroad Company, in later years known as the Kansas Pacific Railroad Company, which are alleged to have been made by Gen. James C. Stone and Gen. Thomas E. Wing, as agents of the company to promote the passage of the Kansas Pacific railroad bill of 1862, Gen. T. E. Wing, yesterday wrote to the editor of the World stating that all such contracts were made in compensation for legitimate service and influence of able men in bringing merits of and national need for the proposed Pacific railroad, and especially of the Kansas division of it, to the attention of Congress and its committees. Gen. Wing states that to his knowedge no contract was ever made by the Leavenworth, Pawnee and Western Company, with any Congressman or any officer of the general government, or any person representing such Congressmen or officers.

Suicide of a Physician.

NANTUCKET, Mass., July 10.—Just after midnight yesterday, Dr. J. S. Bogg, of Springfield, Mass., committed suicide at his cottage here by cutting the femoral artery in each leg with a razor. He also made three other gashes in his legs with a pocket knife, any of which would have been fatal. He attempted suicide once before by cutting the veins in his arm. He has been suffering from melancholy. He was prominent in Springfield, was a nephew of ex-Gov. Robinson, a graduate of Harvard Medical School and the Vienna Medical College. He was aged about 38 years and leaves a widow and three children.

The Saco Strike at an End.

SACO, July 9.—The weavers' strike in the York mills, which commenced Friday, was of brief duration. At a meeting held Friday, the strikers voted not to comply with the rule forbidding the putting on of outer garments before bell time. The committee was sent to confer with the agent, but no compromise was offered. Another meeting held this noon was attended by 100 strikers. Another committee was chosen to ascertain if Cyril Sicard, the discharged operative, would be reinstated. The overseer agreed to take Sicard back if he would agree to observe the corporation rules. He agreed to do so, and the strikers voted to return to work Monday and abide by the rules of the corporation.

Accidental Death.

BANGOR, July 12.—S. J. Blanchard, of Readfield, Me., 17 years of age, who has been here about six weeks peddling, went aboard the schooner Cicero today, to visit a friend. In some way he fell about ten feet tonight, by the giving away of the jib top lift by which he was holding on by. He struck on his head, causing death in an hour and a half. He was not conscious after the accident. Coroner Whitney was called, but deemed an inquest unnecessary. The body was taken in charge by an undertaker.

Accident at Togus.

AUGUSTA, July 9.—Five soldiers, of the Soldiers' Home, while working on a new barn, were precipitated 30 or 40 feet to the ground by the staging giving way, having a narrow escape from death. Their names are George Evardeen, who was injured badly in the back, both ankles sprained and three ribs broken; Thomas Gagman, three ribs broken and badly bruised; James H. Hazey and William Neal, injured more or less and bruised. The rest escaped with slight bruises.

Bound for Portland.

ROCKLAND, July 9—The Matinicus packet Julia Fairbanks, just arrived, says that no particulars have been learned of the schooner that went ashore on Wooden Ball, Wednesday morning, in the fog. The schooner was seen hugging the shore of the ball, evidently seeking an anchorage. She struck on a small ledge, from which she was cleared, the foresail set and she soon disappeared in the fog. It is reported to be a Guysboro, N. S., schooner, coal laden, for Portland.

Schooner Lost.

ROCKLAND, July 9.—Capt. Hatton and crew of the schooner Hudson of Calais, who have arrived here, report that in the fog Wednesday morning, the schooner struck on Big Seal Ledge, Green Island. The sea was very rough, and the vessel was a total loss. The crew had a hard struggle for their lives, finally reaching Green Island. The Hudson was a schooner of 84 tons. She was light, being homeward bound from Plymouth.

Narrow Escape of Two Fishermen.

CHERRYFIELD, July 10.—Schooner Mopang, which arrived at Millbridge, yesterday brought in Gilbert Atwood and John Murphy, of the Gloucester fishing schooner Clyde, who were taken from a dory off Matinicus, Thursday. Owing to a dense fog they had been unable to find their vessel, and when found were nearly exhausted, having been 24 hours without food or water.

The Deadly Potato Bug.

BIDDEFORD, July 9.—It is believed that the poisoning, which came near resulting in the death of Daniel Bragdon and family, Friday, was caused by eating new potatoes from vines upon which paris green had been used. The members of the family are all recovering, except the child, who still lies in a critical condition.

Sad Drowning Accident.

CALAIS, July 9.—Two sons of Capt. Dudley Cogswell, aged 10 and 12, and one son of Capt. Joshua Thomas, aged 12, were drowned this afternoon, while bathing. One of the boys got into deep water, and while the other two were attempting to rescue him, all were carried down. All belonged in this city.

Soldierly Sympathy.

BANGOR, July 9.—The members of B. H. Beale Post, G. A. R., of Bangor, and their friends have raised $103.25 for the wife of Game Warden Hill, who was shot by Graves. Hill was a member of the Grand Army.

Fire at Mt. Vernon.

MT. VERNON, July 9.—The farm buildings of Charles B. Sawyer of this place, were burned to the ground Saturday morning. The buildings were insured for $1400.

Shot Himself.

BIDDEFORD, July 9.—Benjamin Bragdon, an insane citizen of Kennebunk, shot himself in the head today. The wound is probably fatal.

ANOTHER HOLOCAUST.

A Number of Lives Lost in a Burning Theatre.

Women Cry Piteously for Aid Which Cannot be Given Them.

The Flames Spread, Causing a Property Loss of $500,000.

HURLEY, Wis., July 10.—Fire broke out on the stage of the Alcazar Theatre last night at 8 o'clock, and within an hour the entire business part of the town was in flames, while 11 persons had perished in the theatre. The charred remains of nine people were taken from the ruins. The loss is fully $500,000. The Alcazar was a variety theatre, chiefly frequented by miners, and was one of the resorts of unsavory repute and associated with the notorious dance houses of the mining regions. Only a small audience had gathered when the fire broke out, and they scrambled out in a hurry. Several of the actors, however, rushed up stairs to save the wardrobe. When they sought to escape, they found they were hemmed in on all sides. How they struggled to flee will never be known, as none of them except Sadie Wells and Mabel Powers were ever seen again. The former appeared at a second story window and called piteously upon the crowd outside to save her. Before a hand could be raised the flames reached her and communicated to her clothing. She made a frantic effort to jump through the window, then with with a piercing shriek fell into the furnace below. Mabel Powers had reached the third story window and jumped, and was so badly injured that her recovery is doubtful. Among those who perished in the theatre were Frank Young, Sadie McCabe and Jackson, colored comedians; Tillie Moore, song and dance artist; Mabel Goodrich and husband, Sadie Wells, Mrs. Fenton, and two or three others whose names are not known. The Alcazar was in the heart of the city. It was a mass of flames in a very short time. The fire seemed to leap from building to building, and several blocks became a roaring oven. It was not long before every business building between Third and Fifth avenues were in flames. All efforts to get the fire under control seemed futile. The fire department was reinforced by scores of volunteers and sent streams against the advancing walls of flame, but had to retreat as the fire swept resistlessly on. It did not stop until the material for it to feed upon was lacking. The individual losses, amounting to over $500,000, are as follows:

Moore, McFarren & Co., merchandise and clothing $50,000
Moore, Agnew & Co., general hardware.. 40,000
Heinemann & Co., dry goods 25,000
Cohn & Ninn, general merchandise 10,000

RUMOR THAT A REVOLUTION

In the Hawaiian Islands Has Actually Occurred.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 9.—The steamship Mariposa, which arrived from Australia this morning, having touched at the Hawaiian Islands, brings the important information that the expected revolution in the Hawaiian kingdom has actually occurred. The populace organized and demanded the downfall of the ministry and the abdiction of the King. Residents of Honolulu and the surrounding country assumed the powers of government. The volunteer military forces of the kingdom were with them.

As a result, the Gibson ministry has fallen, and a cabinet named by the people, headed by William M. Green, has been appointed. King Kalakaua is permitted to remain on the throne, although divested of all actual power, having acceded to the demand for a new constitution and to abide by the will of the people.

The King was thoroughly alarmed, and on July 1 called a meeting of the diplomatic minister, the British commissioner, the French commissioner and the Portuguese commissioner, to whom he offered to transfer the protectorate provided him as King. These officials refused to accept the trust, but advised the King to lose no time in framing a new constitution, which advice he followed. Walter M. Gibson, his son-in-law, and F. H. Hayseldon, are under arrest. The palace was seized by the civic troops when attempting to escape.

WASHINGTON, July 10—Nothing is known at the State Department of the revolution in Hawaii, beyond what was printed in the morning papers. Two naval vessels of the United States are in the neighborhood of Honolula and may be there. They are fully able to protect the American interests.

FROM WASHNGTON.

The President Goes Yachting.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—The President was the guest this afternoon of Mr. W. M. Singerly, the proprietor of the Philadelphia Record, on board his yacht Resolute, which came up the river last night. The other members of the party were Secretary Bayard, Secretary Lamar, Secretary Whitney, Col. Lamont, and Mr. Henry D. Macfarland. The yacht left at 2 o'clock for a trip down the river.

Gen. Creely Ordered East.

Gen. Greely, chief signal officer, has been directed to proceed to Woods Holl, Mass, and Block Island, to examine the working of the Nantucket and Block Island military telegraph cable.

Rest for Secretary Fairchild.

Secretary Fairchild will leave here Monday evening for a short visit to his home in Cassenovia, N. Y.

The President to Visit New York State.

The President and Mrs. Cleveland and Col. Lamont will leave here tomorrow for a stay of about a week in New York State. The party will proceed over the Pennsylvania railroad direct to Holland Patent, where the President will spend Tuesday with Miss Cleveland. Wednesday he goes to Clinton to attend the centennial of the settlement of the village in which his father lived. From Clinton the President will go to Forest Park, where he will stop several days with his brother, Rev. William M. Cleveland.

The Codman Will Case.

BOSTON, July 9.—The notorious Codman will case is settled by a decision sustaining the will. Codman was a wealthy artist who did not live with his wife. For many years pending his death he lived on intimate terms with Mrs. Kimball, a widow. At his death it was found he had left his entire property, nearly half a million, to Mrs. Kimball. His wife contested the will but without avail, as the above decision shows. It is estimated by the counsel for the contestants that in 14 years Mr. Codman paid $75,000 to Mrs. Kimball. An appeal from the decision will undoubtedly be taken ts the Supreme Court.

The Advertiser and Record Not Sold.

BOSTON, July 10.—The Daily Advertiser will in the morning print the following editorial which is self explanatory:

"The report has been industriously circulated for a week past that the Advertiser and Record have been sold. The comments thus called out have been interesting and instructive, and in some cases amusing. It is proper for us to say that no such sale has been made.

Dartmouth Medical School.

HANOVER, N. H., July 10.—The ninety-first annual course of lectures of the Dartmouth Medical College begins Wednesday, the 13th. The introductory address will be given by Professor E. J. Bartlett, M. D.

Earthquake Tremors.

CHARLESTON, S. C., July 10.—Slight earthquake tremors was felt at different points in lower South Carolina this afternoon.

Foul Play Suspected.

DOVER, N. H., July 10.—Coroner Pray has decided to hold an inquest tomorrow on the body of Frank Rollins, aged 13 years, who was found dead in the Bellamy river last evening. This is by the parents' request, because they found a deep gash in the boy's throat and his face was badly disfigured. The boy was last seen alive Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. It is a mysterious case, as Rollins was found floating in the stream although missing only about 24 hours. There are several theories, the most plausible being that he was sun-stroke while in the water, and died instantly; his head being above the water when death occurred caused the body to float after death. It is claimed that when Rollins went into the stream some unknown lads were with him, who cleared out after his death without giving an alarm. The coroner states the boy must have been dead for several days.

JEFF DAVIS

Talks Verbosely About the Late Unpleasantness.

BALTIMORE, July 9.—The Morning Herald will publish to-morrow a six column contribution, giving an account of a recent important interview with Jefferson Davis. In the interview Davis, among other things, charges that the federal government conspired during the late war to have him assassinated. On this subject Mr. Davis says:

"While the Confederate government was at Montgomery, Ala., in 1861, I received an anonymous letter from Philadelphia, the substance of which was that the Governor of Pennsylvania had released a noted desperado from the penitentiary upon condition that he would go to Montgomery and assassinate me, with the promise of a reward of $100,000 if he succeeded. After the release the man stated that he could not probably succeed alone and he gave the name of another convict of a character like his own, with whose assistance he felt sure of success, and the second convict was released to accompany the first."

Davis then told of the many narrow escapes he had from the assassins' bullets, railroad wrecks and other devices which were connected to put an end to his life. Of one would-be assassin Davis says:

"I directed him to be sent to Gen. Lee at Petersburg, with an explanatory note, and in the hope that he would be put in the front line to stop a ball intended for a better man. What became of him I never learned. Matters of larger importance engrossed the attention of Gen. Lee as well as of myself."

Davis gave his motives and political status in 1861, and claims that he was never a disunionist, but that northern senators relected at that time every proposition that promised pacification. He refers to Mr. E. F. Noyes's voting for him 57 times at Charleston, S. C., in 1860, as the candidate of the Democratic party for President to prevent disunion, and declares that he did not desire to be President of the Confederacy, and took prompt, and, as he thought, adequate means to prevent it. After his election and inauguration at Montgomery, all his efforts were directed towards securing for the seceding states a peaceful separation, though he never thought of going back into the Union to escape the last resort to the arbitrement of arms.

Davis discussed his experiences as Secretary of War under Pierce, and Mr. Buchanan from Mississippi, his career as President of the Southern Confederacy, and was eloquent in his praise of Gen. Albert Sydney Johnson, Lee, Jackson and A. P. Hill. He says Johnston had no peer on either side during the war, if he ever had during American history, and his loss to the Confederacy was irreparable. Lee was his associate and friend, at West Point, with Leonidas Polk and James B. Magruder, and there never was aught but harmony between them. And speaking of the seven days' battle around Richmond, Davis says Lee conceived and executed a desperate plan to turn and flank McLellan's army and added that the failure to annihilate the Federal army was due chiefly to the fact that Gen. Lee had no maps of the country below Richmond, and that his army moved in ignorance of the country and with guides who for the most part proved themselves utterly inefficient. He says that Gen. Lee's object in the retreat from Petersburg, in the last days of the war, was to reach Danville, then unite with Johnston and crush Sherman before Grant could join him. He declares that McLellan and Meade were the two best Federal generals, and had the former been permitted to lay out his campaign against Richmond as he planned it and had received the hearty support of the Federal war department it would have resulted disastrously to the Confederates.

FOREIGN.

General Boulanger's Imposing Entrance into Clermont Ferrand—An American Testimonial Presented to Gladstone.

PARIS, July 10.—General Boulanger made an imposing entrance into Clermont Ferrand yesterday. The houses along the route were gaily decorated and the streets were lined with troops. The city was full of visitors. Boulanger was escorted and followed by a military escort. All along the route he was greeted with shouts of "Vive Boulanger." in reply to an address of welcome, presented by the municipal authorities, Boulanger said: "Yes, I am a Frenchman and a republican, and am deeply interested in the welfare of the army and the greatness of the country."

M. Spuller, minister of public instruction, in distributing the prizes at a meeting of an educational society made a covert attack upon General Boulanger. "Education," he said, "ought to be devoted to forming republican men incapable of bowing down before idols. You would be unworthy of our ancestors were you to throw yourself under the chariot wheels of the hero of a single hour.

LONDON, July 9.—This afternoon at Dalkhill, in the presence of a large number of guests, invited by Mrs. Gladstone to a garden party, an American testimonial to Mr. Gladstone was formally presented to the ex-Premier and afterwards exhibited by him to the guests. The presentation speech was made by Hon. Joseph Pulitzer of the New York World. Mr. Pulitzer was accompanied to Dalkhill by Mrs. Pulitzer and several distinguished Americans. Mr. Gladstone received the party a few minutes after 4 o'clock, and after shaking hands and presenting them to Mrs. Gladstone, all proceeded to the lawn, where the testimonial was taken out and stood up on a box. The massive piece of silver work was most carefully examined and admired by Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone.

It was the first time either of them had seen it. Mr. Gladstone then faced Mr. Pulitzer and the two gentlemen formally bowed. Pulitzer then made a presentation speech. Mr. Gladstone, who had made some notes during the proceedings, spoke with great deliberation and feeling. After praising the beauty of the gift, he said he did not think so much of what he deserved or might fairly claim as of the profound and irrepressible interest of America in the great Irish cause (cries of "hear hear.") He would not dwell upon himself further than to say that while in publicllife praise and blame came from all quarters freely, praise generally came in a manner of which for the most part public men could not complain.

Dresden, July 9.—A madman today attacked a party of men making hay in a field near Rathfriland, County Down. The lunatic was armed with a pitchfork, and he killed four men and wounded two others. He then died, and when captured was standing up to his chin in the water of a neighboring lake.

ARREST OF INSURANCE AGENTS.

Facts Regarding the Arrest of the Two Men in Massachusetts.

A Matter Which is Exciting Much Controversy.

Important Statement from Commissioner George S. Merrill.

LAWRENCE, Mass., July 10.—Insurance Commissioner George S. Merrill has made the following statement of facts regarding the arrest of New York life insurance companies agents, which is exciting so much controversy:

"In Saturday evening's papers I find the following despatch from New York:"

NEW YORK July 9.

Regarding the arrest of Frederick Webber, general agent of the New York Life Insurance Company, and C. M. Moore in Pittsfield, Mass., for unlawfully soliciting insurance in the western part of that State. Agent Henry W. Balding of the company of this city said Webber was their authorized agent and was sent into Western Massachusetts to do business. On the 16th of June he appealed to the insurance department of Massachussets for a license. It seems that instead of granting a license the authorities, without giving notice of a refusal, waited a month and then cause his arrest. Mr. Webber carried out his instructions and is in no way to blame. He attempted, on behalf of the company, to comply with the law and satisfy the department.

As this is a matter in which is involved the laws of Massachusetts affecting insurance, allow me to say that the statements above are absolutely untrue. The public statutes before the present law went into effect contained the following provisions: No officer, agent or sub-agent of a foreign insurance company shall act or aid in any manner in transacting business of insurance for or with such company, or placing or effecting insurance in this commonwealth without first procuring from the insurance commissioner a certificate of authority to do so. There is no pretence that Webber and his associates possessed, or that they or the company sending them into Massachusetts had so much as asked for such certificate of authority as above required. Their operations commenced some three months or more ago, in open defiance of this statute. The present law, which went into effect May 22, requires, not only as did the old statute that all agents be licensed, but that only residents of the State shall be licensed. Not until June 20, two days less than the full month after the new law became operative, did the Springfield agent of the New York Life Insurance Company make a request that Webber and Hamlin be licensed. No license was ever asked for Moore, and this is the exact manner in which Webber attempted to comply with the law and satisfy the department. In no way could either of these men, as the company knew full well, licensed under the present law, as they were not "residents." Webber stamps upon his policies, one of which is before me, "Frederick Webber, general agent, 115, 119 Broadway, New York." Had they been residents, however, they would not have received license when recently applied for because this department was then fully informed as to their legal transactions, and engaged in collecting legal evidence thereof. These are the sweet innocents who would make themselves martyrs. Webber was "carrying out his instructions" from his employer then there was all the greater urgency for proceedings against the company by the Attorney General, if it had been found to be necessary for still more vigorous measures by this department.

(Signed.) GEORGE S. MERRILL,
Insurance Commissioner.

The commissioner further stated that if, as would seem from the above despatch the New York company proposes to assume the responsibility for, and defend such a violation of law Webber has then it becomes his duty to revoke altogether their license for doing business within their commonwealth.

The Petition of Florine Wilson against "Doc" Levi Wilson for Divorce.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 9.—The Supreme Court today continued to the October term the petition of Florine Wilson against "Doc" Levi Wilson for absolute divorce, and permission has again been accorded the petitioner to add to her petition the charge of adultery. When notice of continuance was made, Wilson's attorney immediately set to work to secure the rights enjoyed while the case was pending previous to the attempt of "Doc" to take his own life. The court has heretofore made an order allowing the respondent during the pendency of the suit to have the children brought to his residence twice a week. Subsequently an order was made rescinding the first order, it being shown to the court that the respondent had attempted to poison himself.

The respondent alleges that when the first order was in effect the children were not brought regularly to him, and that his attempt at suicide was caused by an uncontrollable impulse of despair on receiving a letter from his wife, stating that she did not want to live with him and would execute her petition for divorce, which letter he has since learned was wrung from her by coercion, exerted by her father, who dictated the words. He says that he has a house furnished with everything convenient for the reception and care of his wife and children, and he moves for the vacating of all former decrees and the entry of a new one granting to him the custody of the children.

The petitioner resists the motion on the ground that her husband is not a safe person to be allowed the custody of the children, as he is unable to control his impulses and his next move may be to kill them instead of himself. She says that although her husband has hired and furnished a house, it has been attached, and is in the possession of a keeper, and that, though the court should refuse to Mr. Wilson the custody of the children, he ought not to be allowed to see them while in her custody, as she would then be compelled to remain in court, while her health is so impaired by anxiety and fear of him that medical authority has decided that it is her imperative duty to seek a more bracing air than that of Providence.

The court, stating that the first decree was rescinded only until Mr. Wilson could show that his mental condition was such as would warrant his being allowed visits from his children, entered a decree allowing to him the company and society of his children on Tuesday and Saturday afternoons of each week until further notice at his residence at 48 Bridgham street, to remain there not longer than from 2 to 7 p. m., the respondent to notify his wife of the hour he desires to have them sent.

Serious Charge Against H. F. Beecher.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 9.—The San Francisco Chronicle prints today the papers upon which the late deputy United States Collector Blake of Port Townsend, W. T., based his accusations of irregularity on the part of H. F. Beecher, formerly collector and now treasury agent at that point. The documents show that one, Rouse, who was entitled to $16,000 as an informer, having brought about a seizure, was cheated out of the money. They also contain charges that the collector overcharged the government for certain supplies. Blake, who was removed by Beecher, started for Washington to file the charges but was taken sick and died at Chicago. Rouse writes to the Chronicle that he believes a man named Bill Minty, one of the collector's friends, met Blake in Chicago and that foul play ensued, resulted in Blake's death.

The American Emigrant Company.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 10.—George H. Warner, a well known citizen, for over thirty years connected with the American Emigrant Company, was seen tonight with regard to the reports telegraphed by the Associated Press from New York, attacking the company. The old company, he said, being connected with the Bartholomew affair, retired and turned over its business in New York to J. C. Savery and J. C. Callanan, of Des Moines, Iowa, two capitalists of well known standing, who guaranteed the safety of all deposits. These deposits were protected by the original charter, but might have been involved in litigation which is now prevented. Mr. Warner says no depositor ever waited five minutes for his money and all are fully protected. He pronounced the Commissioners' attack on the company entirely unjustifiable.

Suicide of William H. Hutchinson.

BOSTON, July 10.—The dead body of Wm. H. Hutchinson, the Boston agent of Swett's Portland Express, was found to-day in South Bay. It is supposed he drowned himself in a fit of temporary despondency, caused by business worry. His age was 35 years. His accounts are straight.

Indian Troubles.

EL PASO, Texas, July 9.—In spite of military reports to the contrary only a small fraction of the hostile Apaches have really been captured by General Miles. The remainder of the band, numbering 100 warriors, are at present encamped in a valley in Ragged Range, twenty-miles northeast of La Queena, Santa Maria, and about 40 miles southwest of Lake Yuseman. Their retreat was discovered by Tom McGrew and Ramues Smith, two El Paso prospectors. They were attacked by the Indians and before they could escape both were shot; Smith was instantly killed, but the scouts report that McGrew was captured alive and died at the stake.

A party of 36 Apaches near Janos encountered four prospectors and killed them by torture. The bodies now at Janos furnish sufficient evidence of the hideous atrocities which the victims were subjected to. The hands and feet of all were chopped off, and one had his eyelids cut away. They were Americans but their names are unknown.

The whole section of he country is at present in a state of wild excitement, and the work of outlying districts is practically suspended, causing a monetary loss amounting far up in the thousands. Miners are arming themselves for the purpose of descending upon the valley stronghold of the savages, and a bloody battle may occur at any time. When it occurs it will be one of extermination, as the government office at Chipula is paying $700 a piece for all Apache scalps.

EXCOMMUNICATED.

Dr. Edward McGlynn Passed Beyond the Pale of the Church.

NEW YORK, July 9.—The following official letter excommunicating Dr. McGlynn will be read in all the Catholic churches today:

[OFFICIAL.]

To the Very Reverend Clergy and the Faithful Laity of the Archdiocese of New York:

Be it known that on the 4th day of May, 1887, the sacred congregation of the propagando admonished the Rev. Dr. Edward McGlynn, late rector of St. Stephen's church in this city; that he had already rendered himself liable to ecclesiastical censure by disobeying the positive command of the sovereign pontiff, given January 17, 1887; that, however, to deal leniently with him, the sacred congregation refrained from inflicting censure, and offering him a further opportunity to be heard in his own behalf, gave him a final and peremptory order to present himself in Rome within 40 days from the receipt of the letter containing such order, under pain of excommunication to be incurred otherwise, ipse facto and nonexistan.

This letter was duly delivered to Rev. Dr. McGlynn, and as he allowed the days of grace to to pass unheeded it became our sad duty to notify him that he had incurred by his own act this penalty of excommunication by name, whereby he is cut off from the communion of the church, from its sacraments and participation in its prayers, and should he persevere in contumacy, deprived of the right after death to Christian burial.

It has become also our duty to declare to the clergy and laity of our charge, which we do by these letters, that the Rev. Edward McGlynn is excommunicated, nomination with all the penalties attached to this censure by the commons of the church.

MICHAEL A. CORRIGAN,
Archbishop of New York.

C. E. MCDONALD, Secretary.

THE PRESS.

MONDAY MORNING, JULY 11.

We do not read anonymous letters and communications. The name and address of the writer are in all cases indispensable, not necessarily for publication but as a guarantee of good faith.

We cannot undertake to return or preserve communications that are not used.

A civil service bill has been introduced in the New Hampshire Legislature.

The Empress of Japan is expected to visit this country in October; and the beautiful September will probably resound with the groanings of the tax-payers of Boston.

Gould and Sage explain why they squeezed over two million dollars out of Cyrus Field. "Cyrus wouldn't listen to reason," they say. It seems that he fell out with the pack through continually antagonizing interests which the other two deemed it wise to court.

It is settled now that Dr. McGlynn is excommunicated. The ground on which his excommunication is put in the official notification, is his contumacy in refusing to obey the order of his superiors to go to Rome. It will be interesting to notice how many of the 100,000 Catholics who protested against his excommunication will rally round him now. We suspect it will be a very small number.

The reduction of the Tory majority at North Paddington is a more significant Gladstonian triumph even than the Liberal success at Paulding. There is only one explanation that will fit these Tory reverses, and that is that the proceedings of the Tory Parliament have been unpopular, and the people have no faith in the revival of coercion as a cure for the troubles in Ireland.

The predicted revolution in Kalakaua's kingdom has come and gone. Kalakaua is still king, but he has practically been put under guardianship and is to have no voice in the government. The revolution was a bloodless one. Kalakaua was told to discharge his ministers and make distribution of the money he had stolen, and he was only too anxious to obey.

Peru has given a mortgage for sixty-six years upon nearly every valuable thing she possesses, her railroads, all her rights concerning guano, discovered or undiscovered, part of her customs duties, perpetual rights of nearly all the other mineral resources of the country, and an almost unlimited control of lands and banking privileges. This mortgage is given to a private company that agrees on its part to handle and administer the country's great public debt. Peru thus becomes another Egypt, but it is to be hoped that she will not become also such a bone of contention as Egypt.

Tea was one of the great agents in bringing about the separation of the loyal American colonies from the mother country. Freight rates are a potent cause of the incipient rebellion in the British province of Manitoba. It costs $4.65 a thousand feet to carry green lumber 120 miles over the Canadian Pacific railway out in Manitoba, while in Ontario or Quebec an equal load is hauled an equal distance for one dollar. For wheat the freight rates in Manitoba are just four times as large as they are in Minnesota, Dakota or Iowa. It is not much wonder that the Manitobans want to build a line down to the United States, and thereby obtain relief.

The valued policy insurance law that has worked such loss and inconvenience in New Hampshire is likely to receive some attention from this Legislature. A bill has been already introduced to change the present law so as to induce foreign insurace companies to come into the State. It provides that any party, company or association hereafter insuring any building shall cause it to be examined by an agent of the insurer, the whole description thereof to be made, and the insurance value thereof to be fixed by such agent. In case of total loss the full amount mentioned in the policy at renewal upon which the insurers receive a premium shall be found. In no case shall any insurer be required to pay more than the amount mentioned in the policy.

A microscopical examination has been made of a sample of the ice cream that poisoned nearly one hundred of a New York picnic party the other day. The microscope revealed a peculiar formation of vegetable fungus. The fungi were of a vivid green color and elliptical in form. The chemist says that this fungold growth is spontaneously generated in milk under certain conditions and is poisonous. It is often found in pure milk, and in some cases within a short time after it has come from the cow. The New York Times gives the name tyrotoxicon to the poison. This is a very obscure poison first discovered by Prof. Vaughan, of Michigan University. Many cases of poisoning by this substance are on record. Recently nearly 200 persons in Amboy, Ohio, were affected by it, although the local physicians were at first inclined to assign some other cause. The poison is a product of decomposition, but it seems to be developed sometimes in spite of all ordinary precautions on the part of the manufacturer. It is assuring, however, to know that all the New York victims of the poison recovered, although they were very sick. If, in spite of the best precautions, ice cream will sometimes become poisonous, it is assuring to know that of a hundred cases all have recovered. Were the poison as deadly as it is insiduous the popularity of ice cream would soon be gone forever.

It must be borne in mind that the alleged transactions narrated in the memorandum which has just come to light in the Pacific railroad investigation took place a quarter of a century ago. Many of the men that figure in that paper are now dead, and therefore can make no explanation, even were one demanded. The memorandum professes to show the disposition of certain stock and land, put into the hands of lobbyists to be spent for the benefit of the road. Whether the statement of these lobbyists as to the disposition of the stock is correct, nobody knows. Money frequently sticks to the lobbyists' pockets, and to explain its disappearance and exculpate himself the lobbyist alleges that he has paid it out to persons of influence. The Boston Journal points out that the name of Charles Sumner once appeared in a list of this kind as having received $1100 for his vote, when as a matter of fact he had never even spoken to the man who professed to have paid him the money. When the truth is reached it will undoubtedly appear that a good deal of this Kansas Pacific money never reached the destinations alleged. Gen. Marston, of New Hampshire, who is mentioned in the list, says he never received a cent's worth of the stock placed opposite his name. But assuming that the amounts were paid, as stated, there is nothing to show that they were paid for corrupt work. For all that appears to the contrary, all the services may have been perfectly legitimate. Indeed, Gen. Ewing says that as far as he knows, not a dollar was spent for corrupt purposes.

CURRENT COMMENT.

SILVER STILL GOES DOWN.

[St. Louis Globe-Democrat.]

About a month has now passed since ex-Secretary Manning's little scheme was started to bull the silver market and deprive London of the power to set the price for that commodity. It is painful to note, however, that the price still continues to be fixed in London, instead of New York, while the quotation, when it changes at all, goes downward.

THE ANDOVER CASE.

[Boston Transcript.]

Litigation long spun out is the programme in the Andover dispute. The counsel for the professors have served notice on the visitors of an appeal to the Supreme Court. E. R. Hoar and Judge French will represent the visitors, and Professors Dwight and Baldwin, and Messrs. Gaston and Rus sell the professors.

IMMIGRATION LAWS.

[Providence Journal.]

There was a great deal of truth in what the Hon. John E. Fitzgerald said during his Fourth of July oration at Boston, that "every immigrant who lands on these shores is worth his weight in gold if he brings only a brave heart and a willing hand." But under our laws as they now stand many of the brave hearts and willing hands are very promptly sent back, while it is the cowardly hearts and lazy hands that are permitted to come among us without restraint.

A PUZZLING SOCIAL QUESTION.

[Hartford Courant.]

While we are looking on at the outrages in other parts of this country and are condemning them for all they are worth, we can spend time profitably to meditate a few moments on home affairs. On Monday one drunken brute here in Hartford kicked his wife to death, and last night another shot his to death. Two women in four days is a pretty bad record of killings for any part of the country. Some of the worst outbreaks of violence that we notice with such horror elsewhere are the lawless hangings of wretches who have killed women. And there is that redeeming element in them. It is a serious question what a woman shall do whose husband proves a brute if she lives with him and a murderer if she leaves him. Nor is it altogether satisfactory to see the position society takes in the case. Apparently we can do nothing until after the murder is done; then we see to it that the accused has a fair trial.

HERMANN'S TRICKS.

Explanation of Some Remarkable but Simple Deceptions.

[New York Sun.]

Hermann is a slight-of-hand performer whose tricks, on and off the stage, are often described in print. Those accounts usually exaggerate and mystify. Let us take a clear view of some of his doings. As he walked toward the foot-lights he removed his gloves, rolled them into a little ball, pretended to put them into his left hand, but kept them in the hollow palm of his right, and then waved his hands in the air, keeping the back of his right hand toward the spectators. He then picked up a pack of cards from the table and shuffled them, arranging the nine of clubs, ten of diamonds and ace of hearts in the middle of the pack, so that he would know their exact position and could keep the third finger of his right hand beneath them. He walked down ftom the stage and presented the pack, spread out back upward, to ode of the audience, requesting the gentleman to select a card. As the stranger reached for the card, Hermann moved the nine of clubs toward him with his finger, and the stranger took it. Another person was made to draw the 10 of diamonds, and another the ace of hearts, in the same way. They looked at their cards and put them back into the pack, which was then shuffled. The showman returned to the stage and asks the three persons to name their cards, They did so, and a young woman dressed as a page, then brought from behind the scenes a sword. The blade of the sword had been passed through three similar cards, which were concealed behind the hilt guard. A fine elastic cord was attached to the point of the sword, stretched and fastened to the hilt. The three cards were fastened to the elastic. The young woman took the pack and tossed it toward Hermann, who held the sword in his hand. As she did so he thrust the sword toward the flying pack and released the elastic from the hilt. The nine of clubs, ten of diamonds and ace of hearts at once appeared near the point of the blade, as though pierced through while flying.

Next, Hermann borrowed a handkerchief from a lady and gave it to a young man to hold between his hands. He carried a wand under his arm. Taking the wand out with his right hand, he also took from a little pocket under his arm a small package of pieces of linen, which he concealed in the palm of his right hand. He then said the young man in the audience was not holding the handkerchief right and took it from him to show him how. He rubbed the handkerchief between his hands, palmed it, and gave back the bits of cloth in its stead. The young man did not observe the change. Again Hermann appeared dissatisfied, and told the young man to hold the handkerchief up by a corner. The dupe opened his hands and the bits fell out. He picked them up and handed them to Hermann, who put them between his own hands, palmed them, and worked toward the ends of his fingers a long strip of cloth which he had concealed in his palm. Then he shook out the strip and said it was composed of the pieces. This he rolled up and palmed, and turning his back to the audience to go back upon the stage he put all the bits of cloth away under his coat and showed his hands to be empty. Then he picked up a lemon from which the pulp had been removed and inside of which a handkerchief had been placed. He cut the lemon and drew out the handkerchief. The spectators thought it was the one he had borrowed, and they applauded. He put the handkerchief on a plate and poured some alcohol upon it. The pretty young woman set fire to the alcohol with a candle. Then he extinguished the flame with a sheet of paper, in which he wrapped the embers. He went to a table, rolled the package with his hand into a little well, and took up another paper containing an unscorched piece of cloth. He walked down toward the audience, pretended to toss the piece of cloth to a lady with his left and palmed it with his right hand, which he dropped to his waist. While the spectators were looking at his left hand he concealed the piece of cloth in a pocket just inside the edge of his coat. He then placed his wand under his left arm, and took from the pocket there the original borrowed handkerchief, concealing it in his palm. Placing his hand at a gentleman's ear, he dropped the handkerchief to the ends of his fingers, pretending to take it out of the gentleman's ear, and handed it to the lady.

The performer borrowed a tall hat, turned his back to the audience, put a handkerchief containing three eggs into the hat as he turned to the stage, faced about and took first the handkerchief and the eggs from the hat. The pretty young woman, with a short wand in her hand, went down the aisle and borrowed three rings. Returning to the stage she slipped three other rings upon the wand and handed it to the showman, keeping the three borrowed rings concealed in her hands. She then went behind the scenes, and tied the three rings to ribbons hanging from the necks of three white doves and put the doves into the deep cover of a stew pan. The cover had a false bottom held in place by a spring. While she was doing this Hermann let the three bogus rings slide from the wand into a stew pan, broke the eggs and dropped them in, poured in some alcohol and set fire to it. The pretty young woman brought out the cover and Hermann placed it on the pan. He then released the false bottom, lifted the cover, and showed the three doves sitting on the pan with the borrowed rings tied to their necks. He placed one of the doves on the barrel of a pistol, and fired his weapon. The dove was trained not to move. He put the dove on a table, covered it with a handkerchief, dropped the bird through a little trap, gathered up the handkerchief as though the dove were inside, wiggling his finger in the handkerchief to stimulate the fluttering of the bird, and then smashed the handkerchief between his hands very violently. Ladies in the audience said, "Oh!" The showman shook the handkerchief out by the corners and showed that it was empty.

Hermann next got a programme, rolled it up into the form of a candy horn, placing in it secretly a compressed packet of cut paper flowers that he obtained from the pocket under his left arm. Putting his right hand into the horn, ostensibly to shape it better, he removed the pressure from the packet and the paper flowers swelled and filled the horn. He shook them out upon the table, put his hand upon them to arrange them and picked up another packet, which he introduced into the horn while again adjusting its shape. He repeated this several times, until about a bushel of flowers had been shaken out.

He then borrowed a hat, took a rabbit from under his coat as he walked away, and put it into the hat. Then he took the rabbit out of the hat by the ears. While the spectators were examining that rabbit he held the hat close to his breast with his right hand and put into it another rabbit with his left. He took that rabbit out. Then he placed both rabbits on the table, one hiding the other from the spectators, dropped the latter rabbit through a trap, rubbed the remaining one, and said he had rolled two rabbits into one. A confederate in the audience had a third rabbit concealed in his inside coat pocket. Hermann came down, struggled with the man, and pulled the rabbit out of his pocket. Hermann returned to the stage, tossed the rabbit in the air, placed it on a shelf behind the table when it came down, made a tossing movement again very quickly, fired a pistol with his left hand, and looked up as though he had thrown the rabbit into the flies. Then the curtain came down for an intermission; and it had all been easy enough to see through if you knew how.

OVER WORKED Women

For "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated school teachers, milliners, seamstresses, housekeepers, and over-worked women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best of all restorative tonics. It is not a "Cure-all," but admirably fulfills a singleness of purpose, being a most potent Specific for all those Chronic Weaknesses and Diseases peculiar to women. It is a powerful, general as well as uterine, tonic and nervine, and imparts vigor to the audience to go back upon the stage he put all the bits of cloth away under his coat and showed his hands to be empty. CHOKING CATARRH.

Have you awakened from a disturbed sleep with all the horrible sensations of an assassin clutching your throat and pressing the life-breath from your tightened chest? Have you noticed the languor and debility that succeeds the effort to clear your throat and head of this catarrhal matter? What a depressing influence it exerts upon the mind, clouding the memory and filling the head with pains and strange noises! How difficult it is to rid the nasal passages, throat and lungs of this poisonous mucus all can testify who are afflicted with catarrh. How difficult to protect the system against its furtner progress towards the lungs, liver and kidneys, all physicians will admit. It is a terrible disease, and cries out for relief and cure.

The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies utterly fail, of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, are attested by thousands who gratefully recommend it to fellow-sufferers. No statement is made regarding it that cannot be substantiated by the most respectable and reliable references.

Each packet contains one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and an IMPROVED INHALER, with treatise and directions, and is sold by all druggists for $1.00.

OUR ROBBER.

[Waverly.]

"Well, my dear, shall we go?" There was a dreamy light in mamma's eyes, and a pink flush on her cheeks, sure sign that she was thinking of the happy, care-free days when she and this friend, who was so anxious to have her present at her silver wedding, were all the world to each other. "To think that Carrie has been married twenty-five years! It does not seem possible. Dear Carrie! I wish it were so we could go."

"Why, what is to hinder us from going, pray tell?"

"Everything, John; we should have to be away at least a week, and what could we do with Sue and the house?"

I watched the light fade from her face, to be replaced by the usual careworn expression, and vowed she should have this one pleasure her heart craved.

Now, when I undertake a thing I accomplish it at all hazards; so, in spite of mamma's protestations and misgivings, I had the satisfaction of seeing her and papa en route for B—— the next morning.

I sent for Madge, my "dear familiar," and what with our riding, visiting, and entertaining company, the time passed quickly. Greatly to our surprise we found ourselves elevated to the position of heroines. It was considered a wonderfully brave thing for two young girls to stay alone, of their own free will and accord, in a large house, with no protector save a cowardly negro boy and an old dog. Our house was very large, sadly deficient in locks, and we had no near neighbors—none nearer than the village, two miles distant. Dan and two servant girls, with ourselves, constituted the household.

But Madge and I, at school, had the reputation of fearing nothing; certainly we had not thought of fear in this case. I confess I secretly examined papa's stock of firearms, after hearing the gossip, and smuggled several of the necessary nuisances into my room, beside coaxing Watch to sleep in the kitchen—to Ann's great disgust.

The week was half over when we took a fancy to drive to the village and indulge in the luxury of shopping. Madge suggested that we should call for some valuable jewelry I had left for some slight alterations.

As we entered the establishment, my attention was attracted by two men who were staring at us most impudently. Mr. Ernest was an old friend of ours; we chatted with him some little time.

"So you are the head of the household, Miss Sue. I'll warrant you double lock all the doors, and start at every noise in the night. Isn't it true, Miss Madge?"

Madge indignantly disclaimed such weakness on my part, assuring him that the doors had a chronic dislike to being locked, and we were strangers to anything so weak-minded as fear.

A thousand pardons! I might have known you were brave as a regiment of men. When will your father return? What! not until Saturday! Well, you are two courageous young ladies."

Just then I turned my head, and there I saw those two men seemingly absorbed in the jewels displayed in the case. Such a queer feeling crept over me. Something impelled me to boast of my skill in shooting.

"It wouldn't be safe for burglars to visit us. You know papa drilled me well in the use of firearms."

"Sure enough. He does persist in declaring you are proficient in that accomplishment. I had forgotten that. Pray don't expect me to make a raid upon your jewel casket now."

All through town those men followed us, until I grew nervous as a witch. Madge did not appear to notice them, and I was ashamed to speak of it lest she should laugh at me.

We had company until late that evening. It was eleven when the last guest departed. Madge was in the library looking for a book, when I heard a stealthy step on the side porch, I flew to the door, as it flashed upon me that it was unlocked. I had hardly got it fastened when I felt the knob turn softly. I ran to fasten the hall door. As I did so some one came running over the porch, up the steps of the piazza. The door was wide open, Now I distinctly remembered closing it after bidding my friends good night. My hands shook so that I could scarcely turn the key. Every moment seemed an hour to me. Stealing softly into the parlor, I parted the curtains and looked out.

It was a bright moonlight evening, and there, crouched in the corner of the piazza, right by the door, I could plainly see a man, evidently expecting some one to come to the door. I recognized him as one of the men who had annoyed me so in the village, and my heart stood still as I thought of the open door. Might not the other one have entered the house by it? I trembled from head to foot at the thought.

I glanced into the library. Madge was humming a song, and looking so happy that I had not the heart to disturb her, but went quietly down to the kitchen alone, bent on arousing Watch to the emergency. I never knew before that the house had so many doors and so many dark nooks. At every one I expected that wretch to step out and seize me. I was sure someone was close behind me going down stairs. My heart leaped into my mouth! But no; it was only the rustling of my dress.

Watch was always my obedient servant and he seemed to understand what was wanted of him. The moment I opened the door, out he darted, with such a savage growl that I have half afraid of him myself.

A series of yelps, then a scream and an oath, told me that Watch had found his game. I could hear them rushing through the shrubbery. Presently there was a great noise, more oaths, and I knew the men had fallen over the wall in the back yard, which raised it several feet from the garden.

Frightened as I was, I could not help laughing. I knew Watch would be faithful, so I no longer feared the outsider.

My chief desire now was to reach my room, that had a strong lock.

"What on earth is the matter?" asked Made.

With a laugh I bade her wait until we were in our room before she made me tell a long story.

The door was open, and as I reached the head of the stairs the moonlight showed me distinctly in the large mirror the reflection of a man hurriedly secreting himself in the wardrobe.

Frightened nearly to death, I stood a moment undecided what to do. There wasn't a room in the house where we would be safe. I thought of the three revolvers hiding in the bureau, and decided to "beard the lion in his den."

It happened that Madge and myself were expert in the use of the deaf-and-dumb alphabet; it had served us many a good turn, and I resolved it should now.

Madge was in an unusually talkative mood—talked incessantly as she unfastened her long hair. I never saw her look more lovely. I managed to attract her attention, while with my fingers I said rapidly:

"Man in the wardrobe. Saw him. Keep quiet. Three revolvers in the bureau. Guess we can take care of him."

Every particle of color left her face, but her voice did not tremble as she continued the conversation, talking brightly, just as she always did. Then with her fingers—

"What shall we do?" Aloud—"Sue, don't let us go to bed yet; this moonlight is too bewitching not to be enjoyed."

Then I asked with my fingers: "Can you use a revolver?"

A shake of the head for answer.

"I ought to write half a dozen letters. If you are not sleepy, I will write; you can read, you know."

"But you did not tell me what that fearful hubbub was?"

I told her the whole story, laughing as I told it, and making her laugh.

"I tell you what it is, Sue, I saw two men in the village—"

"Why, Madge, did you notice them, too?"

"Yes, but, provoking thing, you never 'let on' that you saw them, so I didn't dare say a word about them. I was sure, though, that they were going to give us a call."

"Well, Watch will teach them to consider their ways, and be wise; they won't dare come again to-night."

Fluent Shop Girl—Ma'am, did you ever see a ribbon more charming? Look at the exquisite shade of this one! It is just suited to your complexion. Here is a bright garnet. Isn't it splendid? Or this soft fawn-colored one. What could be more lovely?

Lady Customer (to floor walker)—Be so kind as to send another clerk to wait on me.

Floor Walker—Why, what's the matter, ma'am?

Lady Customer—I want to do a little admiring myself, and to show my taste if there's a chance given me.

WRENCHED HIS BACK.

LYNDONVILLE, Orleans Co., N. Y., Apr. 2, 1884.

About a year ago, I imprudently stepped off the Hudson River cars while they were in motion. In trying to save myself from a fearful fall I wrenched my back terribly. The next day I could not walk, and I suffered pain from my neck to my heels. Various applications were made, but nothing which was done abated my suffering. Being anxious to get up and attend to business, I determined to place three ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS, one above the other on my back. In about an hour and a half they caused considerable itching. The pain and soreness sensibly decreased, and I rested pretty well that night. The next morning the itching began to be quite severe under the plasters. To get some relief, I had my back well rubbed crossways over the Plasters. I was surprised within two hours afterwards to find the pain and soreness almost gone. I stayed in bed that day; and the morning afterwards I got up and attended to business.

O. Y. PETTMAN.

Advice to Mothers.—MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub, awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

BRIEF JOTTINGS.

The handsome steam yacht Viking of Boston was in the harbor yesterday.

Mr. Ernesto Ponce sold two lots on Long Island yesterday to Dr. W. H. Burnham.

There were eighty-two arrests last week, of which fifty-nine were for drunkenness.

A burglar was locked into a shed on India street the other night but his captors were kind hearted and let him go.

Mr. Henry Mayo, the barber, fell down the flight of stairs at No. 27 Market Square Saturday, and broke his collar bone.

A still alarm brought No. 4's hose carriage to Knight & Co.'s bung factory No. 299 Commercial street Saturday afternoon, but there was no fire. The sparks came from the chimney.

The 17th Maine will not decide on the place for its reunion August 18th until next Saturday evening. A committee has been appointed on designs and prospects for the Gettysburg monument.

Mr. M. M. Bailey of H. J. Bailey & Co., of this city, who was thrown from his horse at Winthrop Friday night, striking on his head, was comfortable Saturday night with chances in favor of his recovery.

A countryman named Jones, with $65 in his pocket, came into town Saturday and met a kind hearted citizen who agreed to take him where he could get a drink. The countryman got his drink, went to sleep and woke up withouta cent.

There were 1,686,366 feet of lumber valued at $26,874.48; 200 barrels of flour and 2713 gallons of oil exported last week, and 10,307 railroad ties, 3906 cases of canned lobster, 1081 tons of coal, 894 hogsheads of molasses, 1319 hogsheads and 275 bags of sugar imported.

Funeral.

The funeral of Mr. George H. Marston took place Friday afternoon from his late residence on Federal street. There was a large attendance of the family and friends. Numerous floral pieces testified to the loving remembrance in which the deceased was held. Two pillows bearing the words "Husband" and "Father," and a harp with two strings broken, testifying the deaths of Mr. Marston and a sister who died some time before, attracted much notice. Mr. Marston was a kind-hearted, genial man, and had a large circle of acquaintances. His age was 55 years. He had long been identified with the lobster trade of Maine, and at the time of his death was associated with Messrs. C. W. Marston & Co., of this city. He had been in failing health for some time. Mr. Marston was a member of the Odd Fellows and belonged to the relief association. The remains were taken to Lynn, Mass., for interment Saturday.

Tap Day.

The Portland Shoe and Leather Association will celebrate Tap Day next Thursday, at the Kirkwood House, Cape Elizabeth. The party will leave the Preble House in barges at 7 a. m. sharp, and after reaching the Cape, the first diversion will be a game of ballbetween the wholesale and retail dealers. A fine dinner will be served at the Kirkwood, and there will be interesting post prandial exercises. All shoe stores in the city will be closed for the day. It is expected several drummers and out-of-town dealers will unite with the Association in observing Tap Day. The committee having matters in charge consists of Messrs. Henry P. Cox, F. M. Libby, B. W. Dean, A. T. Davis, and F. W. Dearborn.

The Horse Cars.

Saturday the new time table went into effect on the Portland Horse Railroad. In the forenoon from 6.30 until 10.45 the cars will run over the new route from Spring street, over Neal, Carroll and Vaughan to Congress. After that time they will run up Spring, over Vaughan and down Congress to Market Square; thence down Middle to the Grand Trunk and the Island wharves. On the Congress street line cars will run as they do now from 7.08 to 10.55 a.m. After that time they will go up Congress, over Vaughan and down Spring; thence to Munjoy Hill. The new time schedule will be thoroughly tested. If it proves a success, it will be made permanent. Otherwise a change will be made.

The Bangor Commercial says that Mr. Fred Shaw, of Bar Harbor is taking high rank as a sculptor. The latest production finished by him at Florenec during the past winter has just arrived at Bar Harbor It is a beautiful marble bust of Mrs. A. Stewart of Baltimore. It is cut from a perfect block of Italian marble taken from the celebrated quarry of Carrara.

Mr. Rufus E. Bacon, the plasterer and stucco worker, whose place of business was on Oak street, died Friday morning of consumption at the boarding house of Mrs. E. L. Baker, 547½ Congress street. He had been sick for some time, and had received every attention from Mrs. Baker and boarders in the house. Mr. Bacon leaves one son, his wife having died some years ago. He was a member of Atlantic Lodge of Masons, and a genial, companionable man, who had a warm circle of friends. The remains were Saturday taken to Newport, N. H., where the funeral will be held. On the casket were placed a floral star, the gift of his fellow boarders, a square and compass from the lodge, and seven large rosebuds, with the words "Good Night," from a party of his intimate friends. Mr. Bacon's age was 52 years.

Recovered at Portsmouth.

The horse and carriage stolen from the stable of Ansel G. Sawyer in this city, were recovered at Portsmouth, New Hampshire Saturday morning. Early Saturday forenoon the young man who hired the team of Mr. Sawyer, accompanied by another fellow of about the same age, drove the stolen property into a Portsmouth livery stable and began negotiations with the proprietor for the sale of the horse and carriage. After long efforts, the thieves induced the stable keeper to advance fifteen dollars on the team and immediately took the noon train for Boston.

The train had not left the depot when the Portsmouth city marshal, who had received one of the published descriptions issued by Detective True, inquired of the stable keeper if he had such a team. The officer wasput in possession of the facts and telegraphed after the thieves, but they escaped by leaving the train at a way station before the conductor received the despatch addressed to him. Mr. Sawyer was notified by telegraph of the recovery of the team and went to Portsmouth for it, arriving home yesterday afternoon. The city marshal of Portsmouth got the reward, and the stable keeper, who lost his fifteen dollars, will probably be careful about advancing money on teams in the future.

Reunion of '77, P. H. S.

The class of '77, Portland High School, held its reunion Saturday at Little Cheeboague Island. At noon they sat down to a picnic spread, which was followed by games and general amusement. The literary exercises began at three o'clock, and were very interesting and enjoyable, the programme being as follows:

At 6 o'clock an excellet dinner was served at the Waldo. There was a large attendance of members, with teachers from the school, and the reunion was a very successful one The party were photographed on the island by Brown the photographer.

The Forger of Blaine's Name.

Herbert M. Taylor, of Worcester, Mass., formerly of Calais, the young man accused of having forged the name of Walker Blaine at Montreal recently, had a preliminary examination Friday. A sensation was created in the court room by the appearance of Taylor's father. Mr. Taylor, the elder, could not control himself, but retiring to a remote part of the room began to sob heavily, vainly trying to suppress his tears. The young man also burst into tears, and then fainted and fell heavily to the floor. The case was then continued until Monday. Taylor's swindlings are said to amount to over $1600. The Bank of Montreal cashed drafts to the extent of $403 on young Taylor's representations. One check for $1000, which he tried to pass on the manager of the Windsor Hotel, bore the signature of Hon. James G. Blaine.

New Wooden Buildings.

The committee of the City Government on new wooden buildings met Saturday afternoon and granted permission to erect two buildings, as follows:

SUBURBAN NEWS.

CAPE ELIZABETH.

The assessors of Cape Elizabeth have completed the valuation and assessment for 1887. The total amount of property, both real and personal, makes the valuation $1,860,212. The total assessment is $35,439.29; percentage, $1.71 on $100. There are 1206 polls assessed, a gain of 53 over last year. The increase of valuation during the year is $28,380.

Mr. Sumner P. Lovеitt of Willard, employed by Mr. S. H. Ryder, painter, fell from a ladder Thursday and broke his left arm.

The valuation of School District No. 5 is $276,094. An assessment has been levied by the selectmen and assessers for $943.92 to cover an appropriation of $900 raised by the district at the spring meeting, and overlays amounting to $43.95. The percentage is 30 cents on the $100, and 28 cents on each poll

Island Notes.

Capt. Butterworth of the yacht Mineral took Mr. Randall and gentlemen and ladies belonging to the Natick colony on an excursion and deep sea fishing trip to Jordan's reef. They returned home quite early in the evening with a good catch of fish. The ladies were highly pleased with Casco Bay and its beautiful islands.

Captain Johnson, of the government steamer Iris, with his family, are occupying rooms at Mr. J. H. Littlejohn's house.

"Camp Lone Star," located on Dr. Torrington's land, is occupied by Messrs. Wm T. and Harry Sawyer and Harry Dresser, all of Woodford's.

A few members of the Salvation Army, under the leadership of Mr. McKenney, visited the island Saturday afternoon without the drum, and held a short service in front of the Peaks' Island House. There was quite a number of attentive listeners.

The American Band of Lewiston with invited guests, numbering in all about seventy people, came over the Grand Trunk road Saturday evening and had an excursion down the bay on the steamer Forest City. After enjoying a delightful sail for an hour or more they landed at Peaks and engaged in a social dance in Forest City rink until 10.30 o'clock.

There was a large attendance at the Opera House Saturday. The closing performance of the variety show was made specially attractive and everybody was highly pleased. The management have succeeded admirably during the past week in giving the people a good class of entertainments.

Two men and two women were arrested by Officer Jones Saturday night in a house near the Forest City rink, charged with disreputable conduct. They were placed in the lockup for the night and taken to the police station yesterday morning.

A dense fog enveloped the island all day Sunday, and there were but few visitors from the city; consequently, there was no sacred concert or services at the rink.

Rev. J. B. Lapham conducted the morning services at the church. He preached from the text, Phillippians, 4th chapter, 6th verse: "Be careful for nothing; but in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God." His subject was: "Work with God and for God in spiritual and temporal things. Take God at His promises, and there need be no cause for anxiety in the results."

The Pavilion.

The Forest City Pavilion, on Peaks' Island, will open for the season to-night. The Theatre has been put in first-class shape and with the good entertainment provided there will be a large audience. Professor Sieman, Electra, and the other features of the entertainment are well worth seeing.

The Death Rate.

The whole number of deaths in the city for last week was 10, from the following causes:

Dyspepsia

Makes many lives miserable, and often leads to self destruction. Distress after eating, sick headache, heartburn, sour stomach, mental depression, etc., are caused by this very common and increasing disease. Hood's Sarsaparilla tones the stomach, creates an appetite, promotes healthy digestion, relieves sick headache, clears the mind, and cures the most obstinate cases of dyspepsia. Read the following:

"I have been troubled with dyspepsia. I had but little appetite, and did eat distressed me, or did me little good. In an hour after eating I would experience a faintness or tired, all-gone feeling, as though I had not eaten anything. Hood's Sarsaparilla did me an immense amount of good. It gave me an appetite, and my food relished and satisfied the craving I had previously experienced. It relieved me of that faint, tired, all-gone feeling. I have felt so much better since I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, that I am happy to recommend it." G. A. PAGE, Watertown, Mass. N. B.—Be sure to get only

RESULTS OF NERVOUS DISEASES.

Their Serious and Fatal Influence.

A Source of Constant and Imminent Danger.

WHY THEY SHOULD BE CURED, AND HOW IT MAY BE DONE.

It is too often thought that nervous diseases are not necessarily serious or fatal. This is a mistake. Nervous affections are in all cases the most serious form of diseases, for the reason that the nerve power is really the very life principle of the body and whenever the nervous system is affected whenever the nerve force or vigor is weakened or prostrated, the physical system is in a most dangerous condition, and if the trouble is not cured immediately absolute loss of health or death will result.

Thousands of women are weak and nervous simply from exhaustion of nerve power. They become nervous, weak, tired and prostrated, and they allow the debilitating nervous disease to run on, not knowing the serious, not to say alarming results which are sure to follow, for these symptoms are always the precursor of a of the whole system. It would seem, too, the height of absurdity for so many women to suffer from the distressing effects of nervous affections and nervous exhaustion and to allow themselves to little by little fade until death results or they become confirmed invalids, when the means of cure is so readily at hand, and a cure so easily effected, as we shall show.

But women are not alone in the neglect of those nervous affections which are proving so disastrous and fatal. Many men are gradually sinking under the effects of exhausted nervous vitality, without realizing their dangerous condition in its full extent. They know that they are weak and nervous; that they tire more easily than formerly, wake unrefreshed from sleep, or, perhaps are sleepless, They know that their digestion gradually becomes impaired, and, in too many cases they lay their prostrated and enervated condition to dyspepsia, indigestion, or some other cause when it is simply and only exhaustion of nerve force. Rebuild, strengthen and invigorate the nerve power in such cases by the proper remedy, and the whole system very soon becomes strong again, the nerves grow steady, unlimited work, mental or physical, can be endured, and health, with takes the place of weakness and prostration.

It is neglect of the symptoms of gradually approaching exhaustion of nervous vitality which causes the danger in all such cases. These affections in the beginning, and even in advanced stages, are easily and readily cured by the proper remedy, and this remedy we propose to give in this article. Ignorance of how to be cured, therefore, cannot be urged as the reason why those affected by this class of diseases endure their sufferings, or perish from neglect to make use of the means of Cure Within Their Grasp.

Poisonous drugs should never be used in such cases; indeed, it is not necessary that they should be, for there are a set of purely vegetable remedies which have a specific and almost marvelous effect in toning up and strengthening the nerves as well as restoring nerve power. These remedies have been prepared in the form of a nerve tonic by Dr. Greene, the eminent lecturer and specialist in the treatment and cure of nervous diseases. This remedy, under the name of Dr. Greene's Nervura Nerve Tonic, is for sale at all druggists at one dollar per bottle, which certainly places the means of cure for all nervous affections within the reach of everybody.

The effects of this valuable remedy upon the weakened and debilitated system are truly remarkable, and all who have used it unite in pronouncing it a most wonderful medicine. It exerts its great curative powers by acting directly upon the nerves, toning up, strengthening and invigorating the nervous system, and being perfectly harmless, may be used by all with perfect confidence and assurance of cure. Should any druggist not have this remedy on hand, it may be obtained at the doctor's office, 34 Temple pl., Boston, or it will be sent to any address on receipt of the price.

We do not, as a general thing, believe in praising any particular remedy in our columns, especially unless we know certainly in regard to its merits. Dr. Greene's Nervura Nerve Tonic is a medicine of so great value and undoubted extraordinary virtues in the cure of all nervous affections, that we have no hesitation in recommending it to sufferers from these diseases, and feel positive that a perfect and permanent cure will result from its use.
